Sierra-Cedar delivers innovative business readiness and change management services to help you prepare for and manage the business, organizational and workforce transitions in an environment that is moving at an accelerating pace. We leverage your organization's distinctive, data-driven insights to increase the certainty of a successful Workday deployment.

Powered by your users' insights, we guide your organization's progress to becoming an intentional creator of its future. Our consultants help your organization generate insightful conversations that lead to mutual understanding. Our services can drive a variety of positive strategic outcomes, including improved adaptability, an increase in self sufficiency, improved stakeholder buy-in and commitment, and faster speed of transition.

Clarity is a Choice

Clarity of your organization's strengths and vulnerable areas when approaching a Workday deployment helps you sharpen present-moment decisions. Our approach is a quantitative, results-based process that allows development of actionable activities to address opposing opinions or desires specifically identified by and for your organization.

Our key accelerator is the Polarity Approach for Continuity and Transformation (PACT™). In five clear, easy to follow steps, our certified consultants can help an organization “see, map, and transform” the energy found in key Workday deployments.

The PACT™ builds on what you've accomplished in the past and prepares you to receive future sustainable success. You define success, be it behavior that reflects the culture you want to create, how people feel, or any other measures that matter to you. The assessment will help you get things done—better, faster, and more sustainably. We use the results of the PACT™ assessment to drive communications, organizational readiness, sustainability, and performance support.

Our goal is to help you become a thriving and self-sufficient organization that will feel prepared and empowered to embrace the continuous change inherent with a Workday solution. Contact a Sierra-Cedar PRIME consultant today.
