

A Leading Workday Implementation Partner for Higher Education

Sierra-Cedar has the largest Workday consulting team dedicated to serving higher education across the Human Resources, Financial Management, and Student Administration business areas, currently employing over 175 Workday Certified consultants, holding over 700 certifications. Our consultants' deep understanding of the unique needs of higher education sets us apart. Sierra-Cedar's Workday Student team has participated in every testing session at Workday headquarters, as well as beta training for Workday Student Recruiting and Admissions. Sierra-Cedar consultants are also participating in the inaugural Workday Student certification class.

- Prime contractor over 40 Workday implementations in higher education
- The first Workday Partner to prime a Workday Student implementation
- Strong understanding of touchpoints among Workday Human Capital Management, workday Payroll, Workday Financial Management, and Workday Student
- The first Design Partner selected by Workday to assist with Workday Student development

Over our 35-year history of delivering comprehensive services and solutions, Sierra-Cedar consultants have successfully completed more than 1,500 Human Resources, Financials, Grants, and Student software implementation and upgrade projects for more than 350 higher education institutions. In 2011, we added Workday to our Higher Education services portfolio and quickly became an industry leader.

At the Forefront of Workday Product Development

With our broad higher education experience, Sierra-Cedar functions as an industry guide for Workday and assists in building products with broad applicability across the spectrum of higher education institution types. Workday has frequently turned to Sierra-Cedar for functional counsel on the Workday Human Capital Management, Workday Payroll, Workday Financial Management, and Workday Student applications. Sierra-Cedar consultants participate in testing each new product update. Sierra-Cedar is the first strategic design partner for Workday's Student system.

Thanks to our partnership with Sierra-Cedar, our implementation was a huge success! Their knowledge of higher education and ongoing support ensured a smooth deployment. Now, personnel at all levels across the institution can see relevant, real-time information about the new incoming class of IRSC students. We're very excited for the future of recruitment here at IRSC and look forward to continuing our partnership with Sierra-Cedar.
